COMMERCIAL INTELLIGENCE.

THURSDAY EVENING, Nov. 6, 1879.

THE political news received yesterday, to which some people here seemed inclined to attach importance, has evidently been regarded as of no special significance in London, Consols having advanced from 97⅞ to ⅞, while French Rentes are unaltered at 116¾. Enfaced Rupee Paper is also unchanged at 79½ for Fours and 86½ for Fours-and-a-half.

In the General Produce markets, Coffee and Cocoanut Oil are quoted at previous prices. Rapeseed and Linseed are partially 6d. to 1s. per quarter higher. Indian Wheat, to arrive, is also quoted 6d. to 1s. per quarter dearer. Metals show no alteration.

Piece Goods in Manchester are reported quiet but steady; and Cotton in Liverpool yesterday closed quiet, Surats steady, the sales being 10,000 bales, of which 1,000 were Surats. Spot prices were all unchanged; but New York quotations come higher, ready Mid. Uplands having advanced from 11 5-16 to 11¼ cents, and January shipment from 11·27 to 11·50 cents per lb. The fact of future's commanding a higher price than ready Cotton is significant, as indicating a belief that we have now about seen the lowest point of the market, and judging from the tendency of the figures at the moment it seems by no means unlikely that the receipts of the past week may prove the highest of the season. The receipts at the ports to date show the following comparisons:—

Tuesday's & Wednesday's Receipts	69,000	51,000	67,000
Five days' ,,	146,000	103,800	145,000
Total since 1st Sept.	1,365,600	1,108,800	883,000

Quotations for Indian Exchange Bank shares show a decline of 10s. in Oriental and an advance of 10s. in Chartered. Chartered Mercantile and Hongkong and Shanghai are unchanged.

At the weekly biddings for Council drafts on India in London yesterday, of the 40 lakhs offered 20 lakhs were allotted on Calcutta, and 20 lakhs on Bombay at 1s. 8¼d. per rupee, at which rates tenders received in full. The general idea here is that one tender has taken the whole amount, but in this instance one of the Exchange Banks is credited with the operation. As compared with last week the result shows a decline of ¼d. per rupee, but it is nevertheless quite 1-16d. to ⅛d. above what was expected here yesterday. Whether the operation will prove profitable, it is difficult to say at the moment, but the course of exchange during the past week in face of the high figure paid for Councils seems against it, especially with the probability of an advance in the Bank of England rate being notified to-day. Silver still remains at 53¼d. per oz., equivalent to 1s. 8 7-16d. per rupee, and the Council drafts next week will again be 40 lakhs.

EXCHANGE this morning opened firm with an advance of 3-32d. owing to the figure obtained for Council drafts; and during the day with strong advices from Calcutta a further rise of 1-32d. has been established. Little business has been done at the advance, and to all present appearance the tendency will be to restrict export operations, which in turn may possibly lead to a reaction in exchange. We quote:—

Bank Bills, on demand	1s. 8 17-32d.		per Rupee.
Do.	3 months' sight	1s. 8 21-32d.	,,
Credits	3 ,, ,,	1s. 8¾d.	,,
Documents	3 ,, ,,	1s. 8 15-16d.	,,
France	3 ,, ,,	2·20	,,

On Calcutta we quote demand drafts at ½ per cent. premium, 60 days' sight at ¾ per cent. discount.

GOVERNMENT PAPER continues dull with few buyers, and we now quote:—Fours, Rs. 93; Fours-and-a-half, Rs. 101.

The SHARE market is dull with no business of any importance passing. Bank of Bombay shares are still quoted at Rs. 663¾. Land and Press Companies are all unchanged, and in Spinning and Weaving Mill shares the only alteration is an advance of Rs. 5 in Dhurrumsey.

COTTON to-day has been steady without quotable change in prices. In old Cotton the only business reported for export is about 200 bales Good Fair Mowa at Rs. 202 per candy, half pressed. New Crop for future delivery may be called firm at previous rates, but we have not heard of any actual transactions.

SEEDS.—Linseed is in more active demand at Rs. 7-1 to Rs. 7-2; Rapeseed neglected at Rs. 6 8 per cwt. for Gujarat. Gingelly is firm at Rs. 44½ for ready White, and Rs. 43 per candy for mixed, December delivery.

FREIGHTS show no appreciable change. Some small engagements of measurement are reported by steamer for Liverpool at 30s., and Wheat is quoted nominally at 25s. and Seed at 26s. 3d. per ton. For Genoa and Marseilles 35s., payable here, continues the current quotation; but for Trieste and Venice there has been rather more doing at 20s. for this and next month's shipment.

PIECE GOODS on the spot are very quiet, and the total clearances from the bazaar are only now estimated at about 200 packages per diem. To arrive there is next to nothing doing, nor does there seem much likelihood of an improvement until after the Dewali.

COALS continue very firm on the spot, but to arrive the demand is slow, and no fresh business is reported.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1879.

THE teachings of the present Afghan campaign, if they are not consigned to the place where military, as well as other good intentions go, ought to have some value. When we read, for instance, that forty-two thousand rounds of small arms ammunition were expended in the fight at the Shuturgurdan with a loss to the enemy, of perhaps, from one to two hundred killed and wounded, it is impossible not to think that there must be something very wrong in our system of musketry instruction, and something no less faulty in the transport system which has to bear the brunt of this extraordinary waste of ammunition. We are told, again, that the little army in Kabul welcomed with great joy the discovery of a large supply of ammunition in the Bala Hissar, which was suited to Snider rifles, for their own supply had nearly run out; and this, be it remembered, in the heart of an enemy's country, and among a people watching for the opportunity to fall upon that army and destroy it. The transport difficulty must be always more or less a serious one in war, but its gravity exceeds all expression if we are to believe that any breakdown in its arrangements can leave a British army absolutely at the mercy of an enemy. However, if soldiers bewitched by the rattle of the breech-loaders can fire away a couple of hundred rounds per man in every skirmish, it is easy to perceive that the troubles of the transport or ammunition train will be immensely enhanced. And the worst of it is, that the soldier is worse armed with an unloaded Martini or Snider in his hand than ever he was with Brown Bess. Because all our musketry instruction has tended towards his sole reliance being placed on his loaded rifle, as if, with good shooting, hand to hand encounters must be impossible. There was this to be said for the old musket, that soldiers were not rendered unsteady by it. The piece took long to load and fire in comparison with the breech-loader; so long, that troops were able to carry nearly all the ammunition they required for a great battle about their own persons. That incessant rattle which sounds so pretty on parade, but which is the sure anxiety of commanders who know ammunition is running short, was quite impossible with Brown Bess, and, for a second reason, because the soldier and sepoy well knew the untrustworthiness of the weapon at any distance over eighty yards.

Now, it seems to us that soldiers will have to be either taught better, or the military train must be made a moving magazine, carrying perhaps a hundred thousand rounds for each soldier. Considering the difficulties of obtaining baggage animals in most Indian wars, the first mentioned reform is the most desirable. It must be refreshing to the troops, no doubt, to hear that incessant rattle which speaks of "our side" having a good time; but it may be doubted if Thomas Atkins's idea of that rattles-imposing effect on the enemy is at all borne out in fact. In proportion as the enemy sees the harmlessness of a hasty and ill-directed fire he will cease to fear it, and the tell-tale of the killed and wounded must be positively encouraging to him. We have heard of one skirmish elsewhere, where a thousand rounds could only account for one man hit in the leg, and at that rate killing will be literally no murder. Battles will have to adjourn for want of ammunition; or whoever has the biggest supply will be the victor in the campaign.

We believe that it would give an immense advantage to our "thin red line," if we could do away with gunpowder altogether, and could substitute some smokeless, and above all things, less noisy explosive in the loading of our cartridges. The sawdust gunpowder, which is smokeless in comparison with gunpowder, is highly approved of by many sportsman who like to have a clear view for the discharge of their left barrel after they have fired their right. And in a battle, where in a short time the scene is shrouded in clouds of smoke, a great deal of waste of ammunition could be economised by using a smokeless explosive. It is objected to the sawdust powder and to gun cotton that they are of uncertain strength, and consequently unsuited to the niceties of match shooting on a range; but whether this is the fact or not, it is certainly not range shooting that is needed in warfare. But the noise would be something even more important to be quit of than the smoke, for it is the report, the "patter, patter," more than anything else, which unsteadies the soldier and empties his pouches. If rifles made no more noise than air guns, troops would shoot comparatively steadily, although in possession of breech-loaders, and the moral effect on an enemy would be prodigious. No savage nation, and few civilised armies, could stand the mysterious presence of death silent but busy in their ranks. We doubt, indeed, if any but the troops who once allowed themselves to be made targets of at Waterloo without returning a shot could stand the dispiriting effects of a fire that was smokeless and silent; but, at all events, the advantage would be on the side of English armies who are as proverbially cool under the enemy's fire as they are wasteful of their own ammunition in action. Why, indeed, the British army should cling to gunpowder with such astonishing tenacity when chemistry can find them something much better suited to their uses, is a marvel? As well try to explain the refusal of the G. I. P. Railway to carry dynamite, which is known to be a safer substance than the old world stuff with which the Bala Hissar was unluckily crammed quite full. We rather suspect that the noise and the smoke made by gunpowder is as pleasing to parade officers as it is disgusting to others; but some day or other when we lose a great battle from running out of ammunition, or when our military train is cut off, and a British army is left with worse than sticks in the soldiers hands, John Bull will begin to curse and to swear and to enquire, in his hot wrath, what his military authorities were about, not to have seen to this matter long ago?

With regard to musketry instruction, as it is now practised, we cannot but think it ought to be relegated to its proper place—the regimental recreation ground. Match shooting—which is, in fact, the highest object of the instruction—is an excellent thing in its way, but it is not, as the French say, la querre. It amuses soldiers to shoot for prizes, and they find their profit in it also, and so far musketry instruction is commendable; but its tradiness are, we believe, directly contrary to the requirements of war, and are positively dangerous from the overweening confidence the soldier is taught to have in his loaded weapon. It has always been justly objected to cavalry armed with repeating rifles that the rifles make them forget the use of their sabres, and so also if it is with infantry,—our system of musketry instruction might well cause them to forget they wore bayonets. Indeed, the importance of teaching troops that they are not to waste their ammunition at long ranges is far greater than to make them target shots at such, although the fact is as yet unrecognised. But at the same time, it is doubtful if all the teaching in the world will ever induce soldiers to be careful of their precious ammunition when they have such temptations offered them as a gesticulating enemy a thousand yards away, and comrades to the right and left trying how fast they can pitch shots into that enemy's quarters, shooting under such a system, or want of it, becomes a farce. No aim is taken, and to all intents and purposes the rifle used might just as well be a smoothbore. We trust that this waste of ammunition, and the means of replacing ammunition thrown away by the ton weight, will be one of the lessons of this war that will not be neglected when the war is over. It is very evident that the old state of things is passing, or has past away, but that some of us are not "advanced" enough to realise the new. Though if the lesson is not learnt betimes, we may find ourselves as late at the fair as we were in the Crimea, which would be bad business were the enemy Russians in place of Afghans. Indeed, the mind can scarcely conceive anything more terrible than a British army in a European war, exposed to the tender mercies of the enemy for want of its ammunition.

TRIAL OF WASUDEW BULWUNT PHADKE.

POONA, Nov. 6.

The case against Wasudeo Bulwunt and fourteen accomplices was concluded to-day. The Judge read statements made by the prisoners before the Magistrate. They made no further statements to-day. No evidence was called for the defence except by fourth, fifth, and seventh prisoners who tried to prove an alibi. Mr. Nanabhai Haridas summed up the case for the prosecution. Four vakils addressed the jury for the defence. Mr. Mahadeo, on behalf of Wasudeo Bulwunt, urged that the intention to wage war was not proved. Evidence on that head, independently of the diary and autobiography, was worthless. The former was kept with a view to aid Wasudeo's memory at the time when he was to give up the dacoits to justice. The latter bore internal evidence of being written when he was somewhat insane. The Judge's summing up is postponed until to-morrow.

His Highness the Raja of Kolhapur, who is at present at Mahableshvar for the benefit of his health, is said to be suffering from brain fever. A medical officer has been called from Bombay to Mahableshvar to attend on His Highness.

The weekly news report from Aden, Oct. 28, is as follows:—"I have the honour to report that the "Rinderpest" appears to have entirely disappeared from amongst the cattle in this settlement, no cases having occurred since the 5th instant, and as this disease has apparently died out in the surrounding districts, the ingress and egress of horned cattle from and to the interior is again permitted. All the horses of the Aden troop have been brought back to Khor Maksar. They appear to be in good health and show no symptoms of the "Loodiana fever." It is therefore hoped that now, the cool weather has set in; that both these diseases may have entirely died out; and that there will be no fresh cases either in the settlement itself or in the surrounding districts.

The Calcutta papers to hand yesterday confirm the announcement of the insolvency of Messrs. Colvin, Cowie, and Co., of that city.

It seems that Chendriah, the leading spirit of the Rumpa disturbances, has recovered from the sickness which caused him to become a fugitive and to be carried about amongst the jungles in a doolie in order and to escape from his pursuers, and has returned to his old occupation of "giving trouble." According to a Madras paper, the authorities at Rajahmundry state that Chendriah, with 300 followers, looted Yerrakapuram on the 17th ult., and made a threatening demonstration on a neighbouring village.

We learn that by last mail instructions were received by Dr. L. P. de Rozario from the Portuguese Minister for Foreign Affairs to hand over the archives, and everything connected with, the Vice-Consulate, in his charge to the newly elected Consul for Portugal at Bombay, Senhor Miguel Rozario de Quadros.

Sir Michael Kennedy, Director of Transports, is to leave Simla for Kabul on the 8th inst.

The work of doubling the East Indian Railway line between Moguiserai and Allahabad, a Calcutta paper learns, is to be taken in hand at once. When this has been completed, there will be double lines all the way between Calcutta and Allahabad.

Infanticide was terribly common in the North-West Provinces during the year 1878-79. The Inspector General of Police reports that no less than 26 per cent. of the female children born were killed. Among the poorer people a higher value is placed on the boys, and therefore when food is insufficient for all, the girls suffer most, but surely, as the Englishman observes, if the police all over the province had been the least bit more energetic than their Inspector-General says they have been, a very large number of innocent lives might have been saved.

A specimen has been received in India of the United States "Refunding Certificate," which in form and general design somewhat resembles a currency note. It bears a number and date, and its value, ten dollars, with the words "This certifies that the sum of ten dollars has been deposited with the Treasurer of the United States under Act of February 26th, 1879." The terms on which these certificates are issued are imprinted on them as follows:—"Convertible with accrued interest at 4 per cent. per annum into 4 per cent. bonds of the United States, issued under the Acts of July 14th, 1870, and January 20th, 1871, upon presentation at the office of the Treasurer of the Washington, D. C., in sums of £50 or multiples thereof." On the back of the certificate it is stated that "Interest on this note will accrue as follows:—For each 9 days or 1-10th of a quarter, one cent; for each quarter year, 10 cents; for each entire year, 40 cents." It has been suggested that it would be possible in India to raise a good deal of money locally by the issue of some such notes, making the interest on each payable at one or other of our district treasuries or even sub-treasuries. The desirability of inducing the masses to invest their savings in Government Securities of some description has often been pointed out to the Government, who would be glad to devise some plan to this end, if it could be done without disturbing and vexing the money market proper. Doubts have been expressed as to whether certificates bearing interest similar to these American certificates would be taken up much in India. It is also objected to the introduction of such a plan, that a great deal has already been done to attract the savings of the people into the coffers of Government, by the opening of savings banks, by the reduction of the minimum amount of Government promissory notes from Rs. 500 to Rs. 100, and by the issue of local loans for provincial public works; and it is feared that any further movement in the same direction at the present time might not be successful. A plan of this sort requires ventilation and discussion; it may contain a germ which only requires development to render it applicable. If it is found to work well in America, it might admit of adoption in India, says the Press Commissioner, if the opinions of financial and commercial authorities were favourable to it.

The question as to the efficacy of mixed chinchona alkaloids as a febrifuge is still being debated. Dr. Harvey, of the Bengal Medical Service, who has been prescribing this febrifuge largely, and also using it on himself, considers it very little if at all inferior to quinine. During the official year 1878-79, the mofussil dispensaries of Bengal sold 67lbs. to the outside public; and the Surgeon-General has recommended that the chinchona febrifuge should be the only drug sold by Government. The Lieutenant-Governor, however, wishes to wait another year before deciding this point, as there are still some authorities to bear witness against the febrifuge. Dr. Mookerjee, for instance, the civil medical officer of Dinapore, who lately earned the Royal Humane Society's medal, asserts that the chinchona febrifuge "is useless in the constitution of the higher class of natives; while it is a very useful remedy for people of a lower stratum of society."

Discussing the Surkai Kotal affair of the 14th ult., the Allahabad paper remarks that brilliant as these little victories are, it is cutting things very fine to oppose 250 of our men to 4,000 of the enemy. There must be a limit to the possibilities of success in the face of overwhelming odds; and, as far as one can venture to criticise the way in which the operations of the present war have been conducted, we should be inclined to say that too much is expected of comparatively small parties of British troops sent forward to clear this or that position. The Shuturgurdan garrison, which the Ghilzais were preparing to attack on the 14th, was a small one, but it might, perhaps, have sent out more than the handful of men launched against the enemy under Major Griffiths.

There has been an émeute among the African Guards of H. H. the Nizam. A commissioned officer, Lieutenant Farrell, has been placed under arrest, and several of the ringleaders among the guards are now under confinement. A court martial will sit and dispose of the charges against the accused.

The public will agree with the Lieutenant Governor of the Punjab that the last annual report of the Commissioner of Dacca might well have included some further particulars of one very curious occurrence to which he alludes as having taken place during the year under review. It seems that certain speculators imported into the Backergunge district, from Chittagong and Noakholly, some 2,000 women, who says the report, "have easily gained husbands in the tracts which were devastated by the cyclone of 1876."

The following items of Kabul news are contained in a telegram to the Allahabad paper, dated the 31st ult.:—The troops moved into cantonments here to-day with Sir Frederick Roberts and head-quarters; General Macpherson's brigade and cavalry remaining at Siah Sung ready for a start to-morrow morning to open communications Gandamack way. Sir Frederick Roberts visited Kabul to-day with a small escort, and inspected the city guards. All quiet. Treasure continues to be found, but Yakub Khan hesitates to give information where more is hidden. Two men were arrested in a village near here to-day; one a sepoy of a Herat regiment, who resisted capture and shot one of Wali Mahomed's men who had tracked him out. Yakub was brought here under the escort of a party of the 9th Lancers. He rode in with Major Hastings, and looks cheerful enough. A messenger, carrying letters from the General to Brigadier-General Charles Gough, was stopped between this and Gandamack, and the letter stolen. The road wants clearing of the disaffected tribesmen now upon it, and this General Macpherson will co-operate with General Gough in doing. The convoys from Kushi are well on their way. There are no disturbances in that direction. The nights now are cold. The barracks here are almost ready for troops. An enormous amount of supplies and fire-wood have been collected, the buildings in the Bala Hissar furnishing plenty of the latter. The men are in good health, though their present duties are heavy. The force once collected within these walls will be very comfortable, and will have much less work. Shere Ali's range of barracks is a perfect God-send now. The weather is growing severe.

A proposal is under consideration for improving the internal communications of Ceylon. A new railway has been proposed by local Engineers of experience, consisting of a metre-gauge line with steel rails to connect the Happotalla, Badulla and Madoolsima districts with Hambantota at a low cost, with a steamer to convey the produce to Colombo and bring back rice. It is calculated that the line could be laid down and worked within two years from the present time, whereas to wait for railway communication via Dimbulla will certainly involve a delay of ten years. The new route would convey goods at half the rates chargeable by the main line. The scheme is reported to be well thought of at Colombo, and has the support of many leading men.

Under the title "Remarkable Rides," a contributor to All the Year Round relates a number of equestrian feats, apropos of Mr. Archibald Forbes's journey from Ulundi to transmit the news of the final victory over the Zulus. One "remarkable ride" is narrated as follows:—"Not many years since a lieutenant of the military train stationed at Woolwich, had for his soldier servant one Jonathan Howard, suddenly found himself minus man, horse, and sword. As soon as Howard was reported missing with his master's belongings, a constable named Saunders started in pursuit. He succeeded in tracking the runaway to the well-known Elephant and Castle, but there lost the scent. Knowing that Howard had no money about him, the constable was still sanguine of running him down, and ill-provided as he was himself for over-much journeying, he made towards Barnet, thinking the soldier would probably find his way to the fair there. Upon reaching Barnet, as night was coming on, Saunders learned that he had guessed rightly, and also learned to his infinite disgust, that the police on duty there, although warned to look out for the deserter, had let him slip through their fingers. The audacious rascal, by coolly riding through the holiday crowd with his sword on his shoulder, had been allowed to pass unchallenged in the belief that he was an orderly on duty, and once clear of the throng, the rough took care to clap spurs to his horse's sides and put some miles of country between himself and the deceived 'blues.' Weary as he was the zealous Saunders resolved to push on in the hope that Howard would put up somewhere for the night, and that he might come upon him unawares. The former, however, was too shrewd to be caught napping, and his pursuer had the mortification of tramping from town to town, from village to village, for three days and three nights, only to hear that his man had ridden through them hours before, bearing himself as if bound on a martial errand admitting of no delay. His lack of money did not trouble him in the least. When necessity required he put up at an inn, introducing himself to the landlord as the avant courier of a detachment of the military train, and ordering billets for his coming comrades, when he had no difficulty in obtaining whatever he or his horse needed, to be charged to the general account, which the quarter-master would pay. The Woolwich officer plodded on as far as Huntingdon, then, finding his funds and himself alike exhausted, he surrendered the chase to the inspector of the county constabulary, and went his way townwards. Having the command of a well-horsed dog-cart, Inspector Hawkes was able to follow the fugitive with some prospect of overtaking him; but spite of relays of horses, telegrams, and special detectives, Howard got within hail of his native town of Wakefield before he was captured, neither he nor his steed looking much the worse for the ride, which had lasted nearly a month."

Shoemakers for man and beast should take warning by a verdict lately given at the Birmingham County Court against a shoeing smith for ruining a horse's foot through negligent workmanship. Many a human foot has been tortured and crippled from a similar cause, and its unhappy possessor left without a remedy. In the case under notice the smith had chipped off a piece of the coffin bone with a nail driven in half an inch out of its place, and two heel nails had penetrated sensitive parts of the hoof, affecting the animal to such an extent that ultimately it had to be killed. Horse owners should store up this verdict in their memories as a precedent, for without doubt many serious disasters to the equine race arise from imperfect and careless shoeing. That only the wearer knows where the shoe pinches applies to horses as well as to men, with this difference, that the man is at liberty to complain of what the beast has to bear in silence.

Price and Meehan from the Mazgaon section to the B. Division, the former in charge of the division, the latter in charge of the Umbala section; Mr. Inspector Meeguire from Umarkhadi to the Mazgaon section.

Theft.—Pandoo Hurry, a labourer, was yesterday sentenced by Mr. P. Ryan to one month's rigorous imprisonment for stealing a piece of cloth, valued 4 annas, the property of Government House, Parell.

Statement of Silver Balance in the Mint.—The value of silver in the Mint on the morning of the 27th inst. was Rs. 53,50,181; add silver received during the week Rs. 14,32,783. The sum of Rs. 11,00,036 in new coin was paid during the week; the balance left was Rs. 56,32,928. There is in addition bullion valued at Rs. 51,87,002 belonging to private individuals deposited in the Mint vaults and awaiting assay.

Mortuary Returns.—The total number of deaths registered during the week ending Tuesday, 4th inst., was 486, being 49 more than in the previous week, 52 less than the total of the week ending 5th Nov., 1878, and 79 more than the mean of the corresponding period in the preceding five years. During the week 358 births were reported in the different districts of the city. The rate of mortality per 1,000 of the population was 36·79. There were 182 deaths from fever, being 13 more than in the previous week and 59 more than in the same period last year. There were 5 deaths from cholera last week as compared with 10 in the week previous. The deaths from diseases of the respiratory system, diarrhœa and dysentery were last week 25, 26, and 34 respectively, as compared with 51, 34, and 51 last Tuesday. The following remark is appended by the Health Officer to his return:—"As there is no allowance made for the increase of population, natural and extraordinary, during recent years, the percentages of mortality are unreliable."

Cheating.—Shiva Gunoo and Anundjee Rama were yesterday convicted by Mr. C. P. Coopr of cheating Framjee Dhunjeebhoy by falsely representing that certain ornaments were made of gold, and thereby inducing the said Framjee Dhunjeebhoy to deliver to them the sum of Rs. 30. Prisoner No. 1 was sentenced to one year's rigorous imprisonment, and prisoner No. 2 to three months' similar imprisonment.

A Notorious Outlaw.—Goolam Hoosein, who some seven years ago gave the Bombay Police considerable trouble and annoyance, and who was consequently deported from the British territories in India by order of Government, returned without permission and was apprehended at Calcutta and brought down to Bombay on Wednesday night in custody of the Calcutta police. The Commissioner of Police is in communication with Government to have him sent back to his native country in Persia.

Carriage Accident.—Whilst a brougham belonging to the Hon. Mr. Morarjee Gooculdass was being driven along the Market road on Wednesday evening last, one of the reins broke and the horse bolted and ran into the compound enclosure of the Royal Alexandra Theatre, smashing a number of tumbler's lights, as well as the railings round the Esplanade Fee Fund chowkey. The coachman was somewhat injured, but not seriously. The horse and carriage were both much damaged. Fortunately the gentleman who was inside the carriage jumped out before any collision occurred.

More Dacoities.—We have heard of three dacoities which have been committed during the past week. On the 30th there was one committed in the Paut Sucheey's territory in the village of Jumulwadi where the value of Rs. 4,000 was looted; a second was at Madhe Hill, where the loot obtained was not good; but the dacoits carried off nine guns; the third was committed near the village of Shivree.—Deccan Herald.

THE ROYAL MARIONETTES.

A first-rate house welcomed the opening performance of this really clever troupe at the Framjee Institute, on Wednesday evening last, and if hearty laughter and applause be any indication of future success, then the company have both a pleasant and profitable time in store. Should this be the case it will be nothing beyond the deserts of the present entertainment, for we may candidly admit that more complete or cleverly manipulated figures have never been seen. As it is the first time anything of the kind has been introduced into India, expectation ran high as to the adaptability of the Marionettes for the East. The entire performances are most enjoyable and excruciatingly funny to both old and young. The first part of the entertainment on Wednesday night consisted of a Christy Minstrel programme, in which some excellent ballads and choruses were sung by the company, while the dancing and antics of the "corner men" as well as the new jokes and conundrums were very amusing. The Italian Fantoccini, which furnished the second part of the entertainment, were managed with exceeding cleverness, and included equilibristic feats, notably "Les Tranks," the Indian juggler, the Chinese Bellringer, the educated mule "Barney," and a wonderful piece of mechanism, entitled "The Magic Turk," who by some mysterious process is transformed into several dwarf figures who jumped and danced to the delight of the audience. The fairy pantomime on Saturday night, entitled "Dame Hood," was the chief feature of the evening, and elicited unbounded applause. The automaton figures were all put well upon the stage. The incidental music, under the direction of Mr. Frank Fowler, was well selected and good, while the whole of the scenery and transformations were excellent. The comic antics of the clown and pantaloon are beyond adequate description; but suffice it to say that nothing so mirth-provoking has been seen in Bombay before, as was testified by roars of laughter throughout the harlequinade. The whole performance is exceedingly clever, indeed almost scientific and well worthy of patronage, besides possessing the charm of being alike amusing to old and young. Mr. Harwood, who visited Bombay some years ago with "The Gregorys," is well known to fame as a leading Australian entrepreneur, and he certainly deserves the thanks of the amusement-seeking public for introducing the Marionettes into India. The company are under the direction of Messrs. Charles Webb and Trotter, while Messrs. Melville and Middleton contribute not a little by their excellent singing and declamation. Performances will be given every evening until further notice. We would suggest to the management that arrangements should be made for giving some of the school children a real treat; indeed, every one should see them, Europeans and natives.

Another excellent house last evening greeted the second appearance of the Marionettes.

THE TRIAL OF WASUDEO BULWUNT PHADKE AT THE SESSIONS COURT.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL REPORTER.)

POONA, Nov. 5.

The trial of Wasudeo Bulwunt Phadke, the notorious outlaw, and fourteen of his accomplices was continued to-day (being the third day) at the Sessions Court on the banks of the river Sungum before Mr. W. H. Newnham, Judge and Sessions Judge of Poona. The five jurors were in their places when the judge took his seat. The mass of native spectators was nearly as great as on the preceding days of the trial. Mr. Nanabhai Haridas, Government Pleader, Bombay, and Mr. Narayen Jugonnath Bhide, Public Prosecutor at Poona, appeared for the Crown. Mr. Mahadeo Chimnajee, vakil Bombay High Court, and Mr. Chintaman Pandurang, of Poona, appeared for Wasudeo Bulwunt; Mr. H. N. Xavier for accused Nos. 2, 3, 9, 10, 11, and 15; Mr. Visajee Nilkunt for accused Nos. 4, 5, 6, 7, and 8; and Mr. Venkatrao Ramchunder and Mr. Bapujee Narayen for accused Nos. 12, 13, and 14.

The Judge, on taking his seat, mentioned that he had received an anonymous letter signed "Pro Bono Public," asking that the trial of Wasudeo Bulwunt should take place in the Council Hall, as there was not sufficient room in court for the many spectators who attended. His Honour remarked that it was too late to attend to the suggestion.

Syed Saifoodin Syed Chand, in further examination, produced a report, dated 26th February last, in which he had mentioned the names of some of the accused who were missing from their respective villages.

Gainoo Bhickajee, a convict in the Yerrowda jail, a witness in the case, being too ill to attend the court, Mr. Nanabhai applied that his deposition before the magistrate might be read and recorded.

The judge said formal evidence should be called to show that the man is too ill to attend the court.

Jankoo Maljee, a convict in the Yerrowda jail, said the witness Gainoo Bhickajee was ill in the jail hospital, where he was suffering from fever and a disease which had caused a hole in his heel. A sepoy had told him that Gainoo could not attend the court.

Jankoo being also ill, and having been summoned as a witness for the defence, the judge, with a view to spare him the trouble of being brought here again, allowed him to be examined for the defence, it being understood that he had not been called by the defence, but by the court. In answer to Mr. Mahadeo, witness said he did not recognise the first accused.

After some conversation, it was arranged that Gainoo should be called as a witness on a future occasion.

Crostanjee Kesaoo, a head constable, produced several warrants and proclamations. Witness had gone out to search for accused No. 2, but found him missing from his village. Witness had kept no diary of his proceedings.

The Hyderabad witnesses were now called in order to prove the offences against the State preferred against Wasudeo.

Rungnath Moreshwar said.—I am a resident of Gahnoor or Gangapoor, where my family lives. Hurry Govind, who lives in Poona, is my uncle. I became acquainted with the accused Wasudeo at Bardalla, near Gangapoor, about three years ago. He stayed in my house for a month. He was on his way to Gangapoor at the time. Seven or eight months after I came to Poona and put up with Wasudeo on my way to the Konkan. I then saw arms in his house—guns, swords, long swords, and other weapons. He also had a dagger with him, which he had bought at Bardalla. In the month of last Chaitra, he came to Gangapoor in the company of one Gopalrao. Wasudeo had a small beard of two or three months' growth. He was then on his way to the shrine of Malkarjun. He had a sword in a wooden stick, and some gold and silver with him. Gopalrao had a stick with him. The silver was 51 or 52 tolas, and the gold was 13 massas. He caused the silver to be melted down by a goldsmith. He had a shawl with him. What gold he had he said it had been pledged with him. He offered some of the silver to a deity called "Dattatrya," and took the rest with him. The silver was given to Sowjee Sevakari on account of the deity. I thought the officiating priest of "Dattatrya" temple asked Wasudeo for a shawl, when the latter refused, saying if he had come to Poona, he would have given him several shawls. I received a copy of the Dnyan Chaksoo newspaper and showed it to Wasudeo. It stated that he had absconded, and on looking at it, he admitted that he had committed dacoities and had for about two months and a half been living among the hills with Remoshis. He went to worship at the shrine of Shreesehail Mulkarjoon in company of Gopalrao. A month or two later, Gopalrao returned alone to Gangapoor, followed by Wasudeo five or six days afterwards. I had then gone to Afjulpore. Wasudeo was sick then. I remember the day on which three numbers of the Dnyan Chaksoo were received. Ismail Khan Rohilla, Soobha Rohilla, Bulwunt and Viram Bang, and the other the death of Daolatrao. He seemed much grieved and shed tears at hearing the latter account. He praised him as a hero. The report stated that Major Daniell, the Resident at Hyderabad, had given Wasudeo money for causing the death of one so brave, who was the leader of his band. Wasudeo said he had been living among the hills with Daolatrao. He said the buildings in Poona had been burnt to no purpose, but it was a good thing for the Government, as the money was no loss, because they intended to have sold them. He gave me two rubies and a part of a nose-ring. He said he would at once go back if he could get 200 men, and asked me to collect men in the meantime. He then left. I saw a man at Annoor and another at Mal Jungan that I wanted 200 men. Isl so told a coly to collect 50 men. I told one Satya to collect 100 men. I also told five Rohillas of my acquaintance that I wanted men. Ismail Khan Rohilla said he should like to see the gentleman at Annoor. On his return to Gangapoor, Wasudeo put up in the temple. He was known there as the "Cassikar Bawa." He wrote a letter to his brother and I wrote the address for him. We lived and ate in the same room. He had a conversation with Ismail Khan dacoities. After collecting people, he would commit more dacoities, destroy the rail road and the electric telegraph, and would take the British raj.

The Judge.—There is some much trash in the diary. Is it worth while to take that down?

Witness continued.—Wasudeo said he had intended to loot the Poona treasury, and would have done so but for a Musulman who peached. A letter came from Wasudeo's brother, in which he informed that Shriram Pandurang, inspector, had started in pursuit of Wasudeo. I handed the letter to Wasudeo who sent a reply to it, asking for several things and money in order to go to Hyderabad. I therefore addressed the letter in Ismail Khan's name. An answer came to my address to that letter. I read it. It expressed surprise that, having no money with him, he should be performing pilgrimages to Shreesehail. Wasudeo gave in my charge a letter addressed to Jotish and Bunjaras in the Mahoosi of Hyderabad, saying he would take it from me when he went to Hyderabad. It remained with me until I made it over to Mr. Stephenson, of the Berar police. I know Shaik Sulliman who came to Gahnoor on Wasudeo. I gave him a warning, upon which he went to live in a garden. I supplied him food in the garden. I then took him to Annoor and introduced him to Ismail Khan Rohilla. Wasudeo asked him to get more than 200 Rohillas for him at Rs. 10 per man and food. I was present when Ismail Khan and Wasudeo talked with each other. I wrote the agreement at Wasude's dictation; and it was made over to Ismail Khan. I had borrowed a gun of a Sanyassi to practice shooting under Wasudeo. Leaving Wasudeo there I went to Afjulpore. Ismail Khan said cash was required before he could collect men. The Rohillas were to be collected in the Nizam's territory. I went for a day to Afjulpore and rejoined Wasudeo at Annoor. Major Daniell came to Gangapoor in last Shravan. When Wasudeo came from Annoor to Gangapoor, I offered to go to Poona for money. That was before Major Daniell came to Gangapoor.

The Judge (to Mr. Nanabhai)—Why was not that asked before? Everything in the case is upside down.

Witness continued—Wasudeo said I should not go to Poona for money. A parcel to the address of Wasudeo was received at the Poona division from Ramchunder Trimbakrao. He had left when the parcel arrived. Wasudeo's Dafter was put up with my own, and when Major Daniell came to the village, I asked my mother to destroy Wasudeo's Dafter which contained proclamations offering rewards for the heads of the Governor, the Collector, and other officers. They were signed "Wasudeo Bulwunt Phadke on behalf of Nana Saheb."

The Judge—I am not going to take down any of that insane trash.

Mr. Nanabhai—It is most important, because the proclamations were issued.

The Judge.—How can he know they were issued to Bhaurao Karkun, when there was no such man at Gahnoor?

Witness continued.—The proclamations that remained were made over to Major Daniell. Wasudeo said he would employ Ramchunder, a karkun, to keep a muster roll of the men who were to be then engaged at Annoor. He said he had a Rajput friend in the Berar police at Poona.

Cross-examined by Mr. Mahadeo.—My papers were kept separate from Wasudeo's and were not destroyed. He had no money with him, and he took his meals with me.

The Judge to Mr. Mahadeo.—You are wasting an immense deal of time.

Mr. Mahadeo.—I am bringing to his mind his former statements.

The Judge.—You are only wasting time. Just put your questions in a few plain words.

Cross-examination continued.—There was a diary among Wasudeo's papers, but I did not read it. I was acquainted with Ismail Khan two months before Wasudeo's arrival. I wished to learn shooting under Wasudeo, because it is a science. I am not under police surveillance. I am living with Mr. Stephenson, police inspector of Berar.

Janoojirao Eshwantrao said.—I am a resident of Annoor in the service of Mahamed Sahoor Jemadar, who has under him some sepoys, some sowars, and some Rohillas. I know Rungopunt, the last witness, and the accused Wasudeo. They came to Annoor about 7 o'clock of a morning about three months ago and put up at the chowry. They had a conversation with Ismail Khan Rohilla, and Rungopunt wrote an agreement. Men were required at Rs. 10 per month for the service of the Maharaj [accused Wasudeo] who was present. Rs. 10 and food were to be given to as many men as could be got. Ismail Khan agreed to collect 50, 100, or more men. Ismail Khan, Shaik Sahoodin, Shaik Soodoo, Hoosein Sab, and others were present. Rungnath wrote the agreement and handed it to Ismail Khan. He wrote it at the request of the Maharaj. The Rohillas fed the Maharaj and Rungopoo. Leaving the Maharaj there, Rungoo went to Afjulpoor. Ismail Khan asked as if we would take service under the Maharaj. I asked what it was for, and he said it was to make a disturbance against the British Government. I did not hear what post was to be assigned to Ismail Khan. I think he was to be made a jemadar of Rohillas. The next day Ismail Khan went to Gubboor and returned on the third day. He had then conversation with the Maharaj, and he refused to have anything to do with fighting against the British. We, Deccanees, had from the first refused to take service.

Cross-examined by Mr. Mahadeo.—The agreement was neither signed nor attested.

Chattroo Bahmana said.—I am a coly and know Rungopunt. I had a gun and a sword at Gahnoor, my native village. Rungoo borrowed the gun of me for a few hours. It was not returned that evening. Finally I got it from a servant at a temple, where it had been left. Rungoo had asked me for 100 young men at Rs. 10 per month and food, he did not say for what purpose.

Shaik Mahabudin Shaik Imam said.—I am in the service of an Amir at Annoor. I know Rungopunt who came with the accused Wasudeo to the Rohilla quarter. Between the Rohilla and the Deccanee quarters at Annoor there is only a wall. I was called to the Rohilla quarter by Rungoo, and I went. Rungoo and Wasudeo asked Ismail Khan and me if we would take service. When asked where, he said we were to remain in the jungle by day and to plunder British territory by night. I declined to take such service. The conversation with Ismail Khan had taken place before, and I do not know what answer he made. I had been offered Rs. 10 per month and food. An agreement was executed between Ismail Khan and Wasudeo. Rungoo wrote it and handed it to Ismail Khan.

Ismailkhan Kiamkhan said.—I am a servant of Rajmoodinkhan and reside at Annoor. I am a Rohilla and know Rungopunt, who came to me with accused Wasudeo three or four months ago. Rungoo called him his brother. He said he wanted to engage retainers and would pay Rs. 10 per month and food. I said I did not believe him. He said he was speaking the truth and gave me an agreement. He said he would make me jemadar. When I asked why he wanted retainers, Rungoo said he was an enemy of the English, and that the retainers were to remain in the jungle by day and to loot British territory by night. I declined to accept service against the British, telling him to go away and not to show his face again in the Rohilla quarter. I afterwards tore up the agreement which Rungoo wrote at Wasudeo's dictation. These proposals were made to me by Rungoo in Wasudeo's presence. Rungoo asked me at first to get 100 Rohillas.

Cross-examined by Mr. Mahadeo.—I don't know at whose place Rungoo and Wasudeo had put up at Annoor. I dont know how many days they stayed in Annoor. I gave no food to them. I saw them only once. I should have seized them if they came to my quarter a second time. Rungoo did not tell me his brother Wasudeo had come to Annoor for medicine or that he was going to Afjulpoor for medicine.

The Judge said it was scarcely necessary to examine the whole string of Hyderabad witnesses, and that they might be tendered for cross-examination.

Hoosein Khan Sherekhan, Shaik Sondoo Shaik Ahmed, Syed Hoosein Khan, and Shaik Hoosein Shaik Maddar were accord were harmless. The charges in each case were supposed to represent 500lb. of gun-cotton, and to be, therefore, worth £50 each. As the explosion of torpedoes of this size would, consequently, be not only extremely dangerous, but extremely expensive as well, the imagination was again largely brought into play. Each mine and counter-mine was provided with a "blowing charge" consisting of a couple of pounds of powder, the exploding of which, either by concussion or electrical contact, being visible, was sufficient to show that the engine was operative and had accomplished its work. Every boat, therefore, which detonated a charge was supposed to have been blown to pieces, and every boat which was found to be within a radius of 30ft. of the explosion was obliged to retire from the contest in a disabled condition. As the several crews belonging to the assailants and the defenders had expressed their determination to force the obstructions at all hazards, and also not to allow them to be forced, it had been deemed expedient to prevent them as far as possible doing each other serious injury during the excitement of the action, the more especially as it was known that during the rehearsals at Spithead the struggle at close quarters had occasionally become undesirably warm, and that oars and boat-hooks had been freely used. It was, therefore, agreed that if a guard-boat happened to grapple one of the attacking boats, or vice versa, both were considered to be injured, and were ordered outside the limits of the fighting ground. The Vesuvius, Bloodhound, and Lightning might be disabled by the artillery fire, but they could not be captured by guard-boats unless a preponderance of three were brought against them simultaneously, and even then only in the event of there being none of the boats belonging to the attack to grapple with them. Of course, a concrete obstruction in the shape of a boom could not be broken through except by the adoption of such concrete means as dynamite and gun-cotton. Considerable charges of these were, therefore, attached to the booms by small craft, and supposed to be fired by means of electric batteries on board the Lightening and No. 55 Torpedo launch, every precaution, however, being taken to prevent accident. Any boat fixing a charge to a boom was required to attach a Holme's safety-light as a danger signal, and to burn a blue light, whereupon all the craft on both sides were ordered to retire to a distance of at least 300 yards, the entire operations being suspended until a signal from the umpires' bastion authorized the resumption of the fight.

The umpires in chief were Colonel Graham, V.C., R.E., and Captain Herbert, of the Excellent gunnery ship, who were assisted by the following assistant umpires, representing all arms of the service :—Major Raikes, Captains Newcome and Perry, and Lieutenant-Ord, Hare, Connolly, Hume, and Kelly, R.A.; Major Luard, and Lieutenants Noel, Glubb, Taffen, Lawson, Reynolds, Macarthy, and Fullerton, R.E.; Captains Roberts, Noble, Beresford, and Thomas, Royal Marine Artillery; Captains Bennett and Sugden, 24 h Regiment, and Captains Peake and Innes, Royal Marines. These officers were stationed at each of the 16 guns, on board of each gunboat, steam launch, and pinnace, and with each detachment of infantry; and their duties were to see that the conditions were faithfully observed, to communicate with the chief umpires with respect to the fortunes of the action, and to take accurately the time of every event that came within their cognizance. Six imaginary hits, it was agreed, would put a gunboat, and three imaginary hits a launch, out of action; while if a row-boat came within the ray of electric light for one moment and became exposed to a musketry fire from a distance not exceeding 300 yards, it was at once ruled out of existence. The greatest precision was enforced upon the umpires. The officer ordering the supposed fire was under the obligation of naming the projectile and the length of fuze to be used, and he was furthermore required to carefully note the supposed gunshot and to record the distance and object at which it was fired. The assistant umpire at each gun was also instructed to note each imaginary round, and to state whether in his estimation the sights of the gun and the object aimed at could be seen with sufficient clearness to allow the shot to score.

It was at first agreed that all officers in uniform should be admitted within the precincts of Fort Monckton; but as even a sight of the sea could only be obtained from the flanking bastions, and as these were sufficiently crowded by the gunners and the electric gear, it was ultimately determined that none but those actually engaged should be admitted. A part of the counter-works, however, was reserved for privileged spectators, and here it was that the bulk of the distinguished visitors, naval and military officers, foreign attachés, &c., congregated. Haslar wall itself afforded an admirable standpoint whence to view the operations, and the Portsmouth piers were kept open for the benefit of sightseers, though somewhat too removed from the field of battle to enable much to be seen. And as little else had been talked about for a week at Portsmouth the action attracted prodigious multitudes. To the unprofessional and uninitiated spectator the operations would seem simply startling, and weird-like, but to those who were enabled to follow the progress of the struggle much could be learned as to what could be attempted and performed under cover of the night. The electric light was very largely employed. The lights afloat were on the Wilde principle, while the two on the bastions of the fort were generated by a D Gramme and a Siemens machine. One of the guard-boats carried an M Gramme machine, while the light at the boom was worked by a battery formed of Grove's cells.

The attacking flotilla, which had assembled at the harbour rendezvous at 8 o'clock, opended the ball at 9 o'clock by cautiously feeling their way into the protected waters from the south-west. The furnaces were screened as much as possible to prevent the glare of the fires being observed by the defenders, while the vibrations of their engines were so subdued as to make it difficult for the ear to detect their approach. The guard boats carried white flags at the stern, while the steam launches were distinguished from each other by boards being lashed across their funnels. Each hit was recorded by a pre-arranged code of signals. The flight of a single rocket announced that the Blood hound had been struck by the artillery, and two arrows simultaneously discharged that the Vesuvius had been hulled, while the display of a distress "flare" signified that the Lightning was to retire, the injuries of the small craft being notified by the exhibition of coloured lights from the umpires' bastion. These hits were rendered more than usually a matter of imagination by a modification which had to be introduced into the arrangements at the last moment owing to the serious illness of Dr. Domville, the Inspector General of Haslar Hospital, whose critical condition it was feared the firing would aggravate. It was even at one time agreed to again postpone the operations, but in compliance with the remonstrances of hundreds of distinguished visitors who had arrived at Portsmouth to witness the attack and defence, the duel was allowed to proceed, but without any gun fire from the shore. Amongst those who would have been otherwise disappointed were Attachés from all the leading European Powers, Austria being represented by Lieutenant Count Oscar Cassini; France by Captain Gerain and Lieutenant Shilling, of the Navy, and the Marquis Ferron de la Ferronays, of the Military Service; Germany by Major von Vietinghoff; Italy by Captain Labrano and Major A. Leitenitz; Russia by Vice-Admiral Likhatcheff, Captain Linden and Major General Gorloff; Spain by Commanders Don Josede Carranza and Captain Don Louis Heree; Portugal by Lieut-nant Commander de Pinto da Fonseca Vaz; and the English Admiralty by Admiral Sir Cooper Key, the senior Sea Lord; but though little powder was consumed, the operations scarcely suffered in their dramatic and pictorial surroundings. Each gun was provided with detonating fuzes, and the sharp sanpy report which these gave outindicated the action of artillery with just as much practical effect as the roar of a discharge. The scene on the water was exceedingly confusing, and the gunners must have found it very difficult at times to distinguish between friend and foe; the shimmer of the various lights was continuous and bewildering, and it was only for brief intervals that an aim could be obtained at the small craft as they were discovered by the electric beam. The Bloodhound and the Vesuvius, which were painted of a leaden colour, could be distinctly seen, but the black hulls of the torpedo craft baffled even the lurid light by means of which the horizon was searched, and it was almost wholly owing to the exceeding vividness and apparent solidity of their steam when illumined by the electric light, that they were brought under the volleys of the troops on the parapets. The small-arm fire, to which the prohibition already mentioned did not apply, was kept up with great briskness, particularly from the southern flank, and it was not long before the whole of the six launches belonging to the enemy were signalled out of action. Before the whole flotilla, however, was placed hors de combat, one daring steam launch was observed to tow a row-boat alongside the boom, to which the inmates succeeded in attaching a charge of dynamite. This was at once exploded soon as the hostile craft had retired to a safe distance. The injury was not immediately apparent, but it was subsequently demonstrated to have been sufficiently fractured to allow of the Bloodhound passing through the fissure. The Bloodhound itself was the first to begin dropping a line of counter-mines in the midst of the defenders' torpedoes. This was of a projected double line which was intended to sweep a channel 700 yards in length, but as she afforded a clear and comparatively bulky target for artillery, she was disabled and compelled to retire before she could explode them. The Lightning was equally unlucky, notwithstanding her enormous speed and low hull; the Vesuvius, however, was perfectly successful, and was enabled not only to drop the second line of counter-mines, but to explode them; but whether they fell within the fatal radius of 30 ft. remains to be determined by subsequent examination. At any rate, as the diameter of the destructive energy would only be 60ft., this was not considered sufficient to admit of the passage of an ironclad. Practically, therefore, the safety of the dockyard was not endangered by the enemy's operations. If it be asked what good came of the fight, we can only at present reply, as in the parallel instance of the Battle of Blenheim.—

"'Why, that we cannot tell,' said he;
"'but 'twas a famous victory.'"

The full results and significance of the operations, which lasted an hour, can only be determined after the umpires have fully estimated the important element of time, and their assistants have made their respective reports from the various points of the combat. The operations, however, cannot fail in being of great practical usefulness to those concerned in the study and practice of torpedo warfare.
